

MCCCI has organised leadership and management trainings in Blantyre on the 7 and 8 March 2019 and in Mzuzu on 14 March 2019.

Why should you attend?

Because the level of success an organization enjoys, hugely depends on the organizational leadership and its management style. Building effective leadership and managerial skills is critical to help you and your organization succeed. Organization attitude and behavior, work environment, conflict management, organizational structure, power and politics, culture and many other organizational aspects are all affected by the actions of leadership and management. This course looks at leadership from that perspective, and provides participants with an opportunity to gain a solid understanding of leadership and management in order for them to establish the right style of leadership to add immediate value to the organization and their staff.

Who should attend?

Designed for business leaders, the course, will equip participants with skills in: organizational behavior and leadership, leadership and managerial skills necessary for increasing organizational productivity, leadership and management styles from the context of teams, conflicts and decision making, the importance of leadership/management and its impact on organizational culture, managing groups and teams, Managing change, Motivation, Results orientation, Influencing other Conflict management.
